The Bridge Street District

With development standards, zoning and an infrastructure that encourages high density design and a variety of architecture, the 1,100-acre Bridge Street District embodies the next generation of community development.

A variety of transportation options are critical to the success of any mixed-use, urban community. The future road network vision plan calls for new street and bike connections throughout the Bridge Street District and improvements to current infrastructure. As neighborhoods develop so does the road network.

Historic Dublin

From Dublin's time as a village in the 1800s to its growth into a progressive, well-educated and innovative City, Historic Dublin has served as the cultural heart of the area. The District is a local and regional destination for dining, shopping and sweet confections like Jeni's Splendid Ice Creams.

Bridge Park

Bridge Park is soon to be Dublin's newest urban, walkable neighborhood complementing Dublin's vibrant Historic Downtown. Spanning 30 acres along the Scioto River, Bridge Park will usher in a new era as a social, commercial and experiential destination. Integrating retail and residential uses within a walkable and inviting neighborhood, Bridge Park will feature condominium homes and apartments, boutique grocery store, retail, office and AC Hotel by Marriott and conference center developed in multiple phases over the next few years. The project also will include 3,165 parking spaces – on-street and structured parking garages.

The Future Pedestrian Bridge

Connecting and Enhancing our Community
The pedestrian bridge that spans the Scioto River in the heart of Dublin, will serve as an important connection between Historic Dublin, the future riverfront parks, and all the commercial, retail and residential spaces on the east and west sides of the river. And it will be an iconic City of Dublin landmark, symbolic of the connectivity and inclusivity of our community. (Construction will begin 2017)

Responsive and forward thinking

Major infrastructure improvements are transforming the District. The relocation of Riverside Drive will open up land for the new Riverside park. A roundabout at the intersection of Riverside Drive and S. R. 161 opened fall 2016. An iconic pedestrian bridge will connect both sides of the Scioto River with public plazas on both landing points. Traffic flow and walkability will be enhanced with an extensive transportation network including new streets, bikeways and a new vehicular bridge over the river – John Shields Parkway Bridge.
